

Help us to help them reach their potential

Participating in sport can totally transform the lives of both disabled children and adults. Through sport, many people whose lives have been traumatically changed can have an outlet for their frustrations and energy.

By focussing on something they can do, and potentially excel in, increased confidence and a positive outlook can be achieved, and this can have a dramatically positive influence on other areas of life.

WheelPower...

- Improves lives by organising many events which introduce disabled children to the benefits of sport
- Provides coaching and the best facilities for disabled athletes
- Provide information on the benefits of sport and active lifestyle to patients rehabilitating following a spinal cord injury
- Organise events for disabled patients in rehab which will help improve their day to day quality of life
- Support British wheelchair teams at home and abroad
- Act as the primary source of information on the benefits of wheelchair sport
